

33 Ways to Get Your Soup On in NYC

Cold weather like this almost demands a warm bowl of soup, and New York's restaurants have no shortage of great ones. From clam chowder to pho Mexican goat stew, there's a little something for everyone.

Of course plenty more restaurants than these make soups worth ordering. But in our research we encountered a number of soups that are only available as seasonal specials based on whatever produce is fresh that day. This list focuses on great soups available year-round, and that includes today. See them all in the slideshow above or jump straight to what looks tastiest below.

Any soups you think we missed? Tell us your favorites in the comments.

European Soups

- Borscht at Veselka
- Chicken-Lemon Soup at Christos Gyro & Souvlaki
- Irish-American Onion Soup at Bell Book & Candle
- Pickle Soup at Karczma
- Matzoh Ball Soup at Ben's Best Deli
- Mushroom Soup at Kebeer
- Begova Corba at Ukus
- Mushroom Barley Soup at B & H Dairy

Onion Soup at Bell Book & Candle ($9)

[Photograph: Laura Togut]

The incredible French onion soup at M. Wells Dinette isn't a year-round dish, but the "Irish" version at Bell Book & Candle sure is, and it's vegetarian to boot. A dried shitake broth gets topped with a thick layer of Gruyere and oak-smoked Irish cheddar for a smoky, intensely savory take on the classic.

Bell Book & Candle: 141 W 10th Street, New York, NY 10014 (map); 212-414-2355; bbandcnyc.com