Where to find the city's spookiest cocktails for Halloween

Bell Book & Candle's Day of the Dead (pictured)

Spicy and smoky, it's a cocktail for slow sipping. Mezcal, dry vermouth, sweet vermouth and Mexican mole bitters make up this Manhattan. And in case you didn't get enough candy in your trick-or-treating bag, shaved dark chocolate floats on top for an added treat. $14; 141 W. 10th St., 212-414-2355, bbandcnyc.com
